Graduate of Associate of Social Science in Leisure and Tourism Management in 2005

Now working in the Tourist Industry

During my two years' studies in the Associate of Social Science in Leisure and Tourism Management, it was full of fun and excitement. The programme has offered me a lot of learning opportunities. I have been selected by the College to pursue studies in tourism in Beijing for one semester. The Hong Kong Tourism Board has hosted a project to promote Hong Kong. Through participation in the project, I have acquired a lot of practical knowledge and have won the champion in the project. Through the overseas visits, I have had the opportunities to explore my tourism knowledge in the field of economics and culture. It has also broadened my horizon and upheld my self-esteem. All the experience I have accumulated has enabled me to obtain the first class honours in a top up degree programme offered by the University of Northumbria. Now I have full confidence to face the challenges in my career!
