

Ms Fion Man, an inspiring facilitator who can walk through a learning journey with you

Ms Man is a certified teacher in HK and Canada. She has extensive work experience in teaching and training. After obtaining her Bachelor and Master Degrees in Business Education in Canada, she shared her expertise in the business community as well as local universities.

Ms Man has a strong passion for her profession and always exhibits herself as a dedicated and reflective practitioner, who keeps monitoring her own teaching practices and inspiring students to maximize their learning. She is enthusiastic about enhancing the quality of pedagogical teaching and learning. Her recent research concerns the investigation of how self-regulated learning can be nourished in higher education. Past academic activities to which she has contributed included a research project, funded by University Grants Committee of HK, to accelerate learning in the contexts of metacognition, motivation, and group project. Based on the research findings, a learning handbook was written by her and published by The Hong Kong Polytechnic University.

Miss Man also undertook curriculum and courseware development for various business programmes (e.g. Entrepreneurship). One of her exemplary piece of work was to design a business enterprise start-up module, which was tailor-made for senior high and at-risk students, as part of the Career Oriented Curriculum, funded by the Government of HKSAR and initiated by Institute of Vocational Education. Apart from these, she also performed consultancy work for primary and secondary schools in coping with External School Reviews, and in transforming them into a learning organization through school self-evaluation for long term self-sustainability.
