

Delegate of Faculty of Law, Thammasat University, Thailand visits School of Law

7 April 2010

Professor Dr Somkit Lertpaithoon, Dean, Faculty of Law, Thammasat University, Thailand, led a delegate of 21 people to School of Law (SLW) on 7 April 2010.

The delegate was welcomed by Professor Wang Guiguo, Dean of SLW. Professor Wang stressed that HK was an international city and it was the mission of the Law School to train students with global vision, by equipping them with global skills and knowledge. Law graduates of SLW were groomed to achieve internationally.

They were also briefly introduced of various programmes offered by the Law School. Dr Surya Deva, Ms Sushma Sharma and Mr Rajesh Sharma shared with the delegate of the edge, such as video-link teaching, G-LEAP and CityU Law Review of SLW, as well as our pride in achievements attained in various mooted competitions.

Professor Lertpaithoon was particularly interested in our one-year LLM programme for Chinese Judges and would like to explore cooperation with the SLW. He expressed that Faculty of Law, Thammasat University was the oldest law school of Thailand, and was recognized as the best and leading law school in the country, it would be a further enhancement of the faculty by allowing young teaching staff to take short term courses in leading institution in other jurisdictions.

After the brief introduction, the delegate took a tour at the Video Seminar Room, Lecture Theatre and our Law Library. Professor Lertpaithoon and the delegate appreciated the remarkable collection of the Law Library.
