Part II Course Details

Abstract

This course aims to introduce students to the mindset, skills, and experience necessary to become a global marketing manager, and enables students to assess the potential for marketing products to other countries or regions in light of differences in their economic, cultural, and political environments. It introduces students to the considerations involved in developing a marketing strategy following global vs. local market segmentation, targeting, and positioning, and facilitates students' ability to develop global and local product, pricing, promotion, and distribution policies to take advantage of similarities and differences across markets. In the end, the students should be able to design and implement a market entry strategy and make intelligent decisions regarding the organization of global marketing efforts.

Learning and Teaching Activities (LTAs)

LTAs		Brief Description	CILO No.	Hours/week (if applicable)
1	Seminar	Concepts and knowledge of global marketing are explained and discussed. To assist students in understanding the taught concepts, discussion exercises are used in every lecture. Students are given exercises that cover relevant topics and are encouraged to work-along with the lecturer and their peers. These exercises help students to visualize the applications of the concepts.	1, 2, 3, 4, 5
2	Case Discussions	Students are required to prepare case studies that illustrate and apply global marketing concepts. In groups, students will discuss, write-up, and present their analyses of the case and suggested recommendation.	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6
3	Independent Study	Students are required to pre-read the assigned chapters and also other relevant materials provided by the lecturer before coming to classes. These readings provide students opportunity to think through global marketing concepts and their applications.	1, 2, 4
