Johnson, Chan Tsun Sing

Bachelor of Arts in Linguistics and Language Applications
2019-2021 Inclusion Ambassador

In this team, I have made a group of lovely peers and had more than expected fruitful experiences. Through close interaction with students with SEN, we could see their true and specific needs in living or other areas beyond those listed on teaching materials. Moreover, I found most of them have independent and impressive thoughts, and some even have outstanding achievements. Also, thanks to their interesting thoughts, I have been inspired for many times during the conversations with them. And very often, we would become friends in no sense.

Doris, Wong Wai Yin

Bachelor of Social Sciences in Criminology and Sociology
2019-2021 Inclusion Ambassador

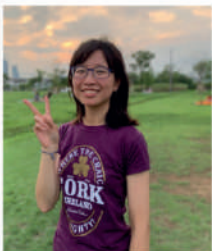

I joined Caring League because I would like to know more about people with special needs. I did not have many chances to get in touch with them. So, being an IA would provide me with an opportunity to deepen my understanding of their needs.

I enjoyed working with my IA teammates in the last year. They are funny and passionate. As I remember, the training day camp was quite fun that I learned more about barrier-free facilities and students with special needs. It is nice to meet good friends here in the IA team!

Sally, Lam Yan Kiu

Bachelor of Arts in English Studies
2017-2021 Inclusion Ambassador

I have joined Inclusion Ambassador (IA) for four years. Some may ask, why are you staying for so long? My answer is: the experience was fruitful, and it is satisfying to see the changes in my life. At first, I joined to help the needy. However, as time progressed, I was also benefited because they helped me see more possibilities in life.

For IA team, we had a training camp learning about the daily struggles of people with physical disabilities. Afterwards, we felt closer to some IA members as they, coincidentally, have physical disabilities. Last year, we organized many activities to interact with students with SEN, such as photography and DIY workshops. Under the hit of COVID-19, we managed to have them gone online and face-to-face interchangeably depending on the situation.

Definitely. It's a common language around the world. Let's learn it together.

It's my first time to learn Sign Language. It's amazing
