CCCL NEWSLETTER

VOL. 1, ISSUE 1 (JAN 2021)

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

As the calendar page turns to February 2021, I realized that a full year has passed since I took over the directorship of the Centre for Chinese and Comparative Law (CCCL). 2020 was an extraordinary year for all of us. The coronavirus pandemic has prevented research centres like ours from functioning in the traditional ways through face-to-face meetings, seminars, workshops and conferences. I am however very proud that the CCCL quickly adapted to the new situation at the inception of the pandemic and has been able to provide a forum for the promotion of Chinese legal studies through organizing academic conferences to critically analyse the cutting-edge issues concerning Chinese law, including, among others, the Covid-19 pandemic and the models of governance in East Asia, the Hong Kong National Security Law, CISG and Hong Kong, and the rule of law in Chinese foreign affairs. Meanwhile, our members have been continuing their world-class academic endeavours in securing major and significant grants as well as publishing in top journals. All these efforts have been helping us steadily march towards the goal of bringing the centre of gravity of Chinese legal studies to the City University of Hong Kong (CityU) School of Law.

The CCCL Newsletter, this one being the inaugural issue, is created to keep members of the Centre, the CityU Community as well as the general legal community in Hong Kong and other parts of the world posted of developments with the CCCL. It also helps to promote the research profile of our members. The Newsletter will be published every three months from now on.

I would also take this opportunity to thank those of you who have contributed to the growth of the CCCL since its establishment in 1994. The future success of the CCCL must continue to rely on your generous support.

Having said that, I wish all of you good health, happiness and prosperity in 2021.

Professor Wang Jiangyu
Director, Centre for Chinese and Comparative Law (CCCL)

MAJOR PAST EVENTS (JAN – DEC 2020)

Conferences/Symposiums/Workshops

“法治與中國對外事務”國際學術研討會 (International Symposium on “The Rule of Law in Chinese Foreign Affairs”) (30 Nov 2020)

This online international symposium was held by CCCL in collaboration with the Fudan University Law School and the Chinese Journal of Comparative Law with the aim of promoting the rule of law in China's foreign relations and deepening the understanding on how the Chinese government conduct foreign affairs. Twenty-three scholars from Hong Kong, mainland China and Germany were invited to participate in this symposium. During the symposium, speakers discussed issues relating to China's foreign affairs from both legal and practical perspectives, such as extraterritoriality, diplomatic immunity, interaction between international law and domestic law of China, and unilateral sanctions. Ways to improve the rule of law in China's foreign relations were also discussed. Papers presented at this symposium are expected to be published in a special issue of the Chinese Journal of Comparative Law in March 2021.

“港區國家安全法理論與實踐”學術研討會 (International Symposium on “The National Security Law of Hong Kong: Theoretical and Practical Perspectives”) (11 Sept 2020)

This symposium was jointly organized by CCCL and its sister research centre — the Public Law and Human Rights Forum (CPLR) of the School of Law of City University of Hong Kong, together with the “One Country Two Systems” Law Institute of Renmin University of China. This was the second academic conference of CCCL and CPLR on the controversial National Security Law of the HKSAR (NSL) which came into force at 11pm on 30 June 2020. This was the first bilingual online academic conference relating to the NSL with simultaneous interpretation provided throughout the whole conference. A group of over 40 legal experts and scholars from mainland China, Hong Kong and Canada participated in this symposium to discuss various critical theoretical and practical issues relating to the implementation of the NSL in the HKSAR.

CityU School of Law Dean Prof. Tan Cheng Han (above, right), CPLR Director Prof. Zhu Guobin (above, left) and Director of “One Country Two Systems” Law Institute Prof. Han Dayuan (below) delivered the opening speech for the National Security Law of Hong Kong International Symposium

CCCL Online Symposium on “The Application of the CISG to HKSAR” (28 Aug 2020)

This symposium was organized in response to the Department of Justice of the HKSAR Government's public consultation paper entitled “Proposed Application of the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods to the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region”, which was issued on 2 March 2020. The purpose of this symposium was to solicit comments from some of the leading experts on the CISG from the UK, Australia, Hong Kong and Singapore on the applicability and application of CISG in Hong Kong from both theoretical and practical perspectives.

How Has COVID-19 (Re)Shaped Government-Business Relations in Asia? (28 Jul 2020)

While COVID-19 — which was first identified in China's Wuhan in December 2019 and later developed into a pandemic — since early 2020 has been hitting the world with its unprecedented impact, governments throughout the globe are responding to the crisis in different ways. However, many of the COVID-19 prevention measures commonly adopted by many jurisdictions — such as travel bans, lockdowns and social distancing — pose significant negative impacts on domestic economies and international trades. During this roundtable, which was organized by CCCL in partnership with the Centre for Asian Legal Studies of the Faculty of Law of National University of Singapore, five speakers were invited to share their thoughts and insights on the impacts of COVID-19 and different governments' responses to this pandemic, as well as the resultant implications on trade, economics and government-business relations. They related the COVID-19 prevention measures being implemented in different jurisdictions to the relevant regional ideology behind and explained the possible temporary to permanent impacts of these measures on those jurisdictions.

International Symposium on COVID-19 and Models of Governance in East Asia and the World (新冠肺炎疫情與東亞治理模式國際研討會) (12 Jun 2020)

This online symposium was organized by CCCL in collaboration with the Public Law and Human Rights Forum (CPLR) of City University of Hong Kong School of Law, with the aim of discussing issues relating to national and regional governance, especially in East Asia, arisen as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, including the impacts of governments' responses to COVID-19 on the rule of law and rights protection (e.g. right to life, freedom of speech, privacy, freedom of information, etc.); the implications of COVID-19 on trade and economics; emergency law and public health policy in times of pandemic; and the responses of different jurisdictions and different governance models to COVID-19 and their lessons. Twenty-one both informative and thought-provoking presentations on the following four sub-themes were made during the symposium: 1) Rights protection and health governance in China; 2) Economic and legal issues relating to COVID-19 in China; 3) A comparative study of different jurisdictions' responses to COVID-19 and the challenges of the pandemic to state governance; and 4) The impacts of COVID-19 on global governance. This symposium is a research output-oriented event, some of the papers presented at this Symposium will be blindly reviewed and published in a special issue of an international comparative law journal.

中國民法典網上研討會 (Online Symposium on Chinese Civil Code) (7 Jun 2020)

This symposium was held to discuss the much anticipated Civil Code of the People's Republic of China (Civil Code), which was passed by the Third Plenary Meeting of the 13th National People's Congress on 28 May 2020 and will come into force on 1 January 2021 to become the single most comprehensive collection of civil and commercial provisions of law in China. A group of civil law scholars and experts from the Hong Kong, mainland China and overseas (including a member of one of the Civil Code drafting teams) were invited to discuss a range of academic issues arising from the Civil Code, such as the debates and controversies during the law-making process, as well as issues relating to its future application in areas including but not limited to the structure of the Civil Code, the general provisions, and the provisions relating to property, contract, personality rights and torts.

“香港特區維護國家安全法”網上研討會 (Online Symposium on “National Security Legislation of the HKSAR”) (5 Jun 2020)

This online symposium was jointly organized by CCCL and the Public Law and Human Rights Forum (CPLR) of City University of Hong Kong School of Law. A total of 14 experts and lawyers from mainland China, Hong Kong, Macau and overseas were invited to share their views on the Decision of the National People's Congress on Establishing and Improving the Legal System and Enforcement Mechanisms for the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region to Safeguard National Security — which was passed on 28 May 2020 and served as the legal basis of the Central People's Government's subsequent promulgation of the Law of the People's Republic of China on Safeguarding National Security in the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region and making it part of the law of the HKSAR.

Seminars

Charles Ho Wang Mak, “The Development and Regulation of Online Mediation in China and the United States under the COVID-19 Pandemic” (15 Dec 2020)

Given the recent COVID-19 crisis, online dispute resolution has received unprecedented interest and attention in different jurisdictions. This is particularly true for online mediation. In this seminar, CCCL Visiting Researcher Mr. Charles Mak discussed two different development paths of online mediation in the post-COVID-19 era taken in the world's two largest economies, namely China and the United States.

“新冠肺炎疫情、國際法與疫後國際秩序”網上座談會 (Online Workshop on “COVID-19, International Law and the Post-Pandemic International Order”) (22 May 2020)

In this closed-door workshop, 24 distinguished international law and international relations scholars from Hong Kong, mainland China and overseas were invited to discuss the international law issues concerning COVID-19, including, in particular, state responsibility in public health crisis, state sovereignty immunity, international organizations and global governance, great power diplomacy, state governance and international politics, international trade and investment, and the impact of the pandemic on international order, etc.

Joe Ng, “Publishing Your Book with Cambridge” (25 Nov 2020)

Cambridge University Press (CUP) is highly regarded as one of the top academic publishers in the world. Many academics consider having one's own research output being published by CUP as a remarkable achievement in their academic career. Having considered that, CCCL invited Acquisitions Editor of CUP (Singapore) Mr. Joe Ng to give a seminar to colleagues of City University of Hong Kong, offering audience an overview of CUP, its publication process and some tips regarding book proposal submissions.

ABOUT CCCL

The Centre for Chinese and Comparative Law (CCCL) was established in 1994 as an interdisciplinary research institute in affiliation with the School of Law of City University of Hong Kong (CityU Law). As one of the world's oldest research centres on Chinese and comparative legal studies as a discipline, it is devoted to research in both fundamental and cutting-edge issues in the relevant areas. The Centre benefits greatly not only from the institutional support of CityU Law but also from a sizable group of academics in the School of Law who specialize either in a particular area of Chinese law or general Chinese legal studies, as well as, are experts in comparative law. The Centre is blessed by its location in Hong Kong which has a legal system based on English common law and a long-standing rule of law tradition. As an international business and financial hub under the "One Country, Two Systems", Hong Kong has also served as an international legal hub in facilitating rule-based commercial transactions and trans-border dispute settlement, in many cases involving mainland China, and provides the best forum in the world for interactions between Chinese laws and foreign laws. As both CityU and its School of Law are increasingly recognized as world-class educational and research institutions, the Centre is now in an ideal position to be the centre of gravity for Chinese and comparative legal studies in the region and the world.
