University Announcement

Notification from the Emergency Response Unit (ERU) (71) Update on suspected novel coronavirus case on campus

The novel coronavirus test on a student who was sent to hospital on 1 February (Saturday) has come back negative. This test result confirms that the student has not been infected by the virus. The student will be discharged later. With this, the University now has no outstanding suspected case.

The University has stayed in close contact with the student over the past few days and offered help whenever necessary.

We will continue to remain highly vigilant and closely monitor the situation to prevent the spread of the virus on campus. In case of emergency, staff and students may call our 24-hour emergency hotline: 3442 8888.
