Part II Course Details

1. Abstract

This course aims to encourage students to discover insights into the concepts of crime, criminal liability and substantive criminal offences and their application in Hong Kong. Additionally, the course aims to engage students in the analysis, understanding and application of the substantive law and to encourage and facilitate the development of the necessary analytical, reasoning and practical skills needed to apply the substantive law to factual scenarios. Attention will be given to the strengths and weakness of substantive criminal law as it operates in Hong Kong and students will be encouraged to consider the development of Hong Kong's substantive criminal law and to draw comparisons with the development of substantive criminal law in other jurisdictions. The course also aims to encourage students to think independently, and to discover for themselves relevant principles and ideas.

2. Reading List

Students must purchase the course textbook and may choose to purchase the optional textbook, from which reading will be drawn throughout the semester.

- Michael Jackson (2003), Criminal Law in Hong Kong, Hong Kong University Press (Course Textbook)

Useful sources for further reading are:

- Victor Ho Wai-Kin (2011), Criminal Law in Hong Kong, Kluwer Law International (out of print, but available in the library reserve)
- Bokhary, Young & Cross (eds), Archbold Hong Kong: Criminal Law, Pleadings, Evidence and Practice, 2019, Sweet & Maxwell (available in the library in hardcopy, also available electronically as per below)
