Aims
This programme provides students with general cross-cultural communication competency as well as specific skills in translation and interpretation. Graduates are well-equipped for fulfilling careers, whether as translators and interpreters, or as language professionals working in other capacities with Chinese and English.

Core Courses
As a TI student, you will be studying core courses such as Culture and Translation, Fundamentals of Translation, Interpretation I & II, Theory of Translation, Practical Translation and Reading Bilingual Literature, and Comparative Study of Chinese and English.

Electives
There are also a number of interesting and challenging electives for you to choose from, such as Audiovisual Translation, Bilingual Editing Skills, Commercial Translation, Computer-aided Translation, Legal Translation, Literary Translation, Performance and Translation, Simultaneous Interpretation, Translation for Government and Public Administration.

Go Global: Exchange and Internship
You will also have opportunities to participate in our formal exchange programmes, local and overseas internship programmes, summer school, and study tours. You may transfer credits upon completion of these programmes.

Career Prospects
Our alumni excel in both the public and private sectors, working as translators and interpreters, editors, reporters, administrators, teachers, public relation executives, copywriters, human resources executives, civil servants, marketing officers, and language professionals. In addition, many of them further their studies in Hong Kong and abroad.

View our video for more information.